LexisNexis Canada: Advancing the Rule of Law and Combating Human Trafficking

Where the Rule of Law is compromised, human trafficking can exist. LexisNexis is committed to promoting the Rule of Law, in Canada and abroad. Over the past year, our efforts have included:

- Hosting the Toronto premiere of the critically acclaimed film Holly and leading a panel discussion to raise awareness for the need to fight human trafficking and child sexual exploitation.
- Sponsoring the Student Program of Canadian Lawyers Abroad, which enables students to work at non-governmental organizations on important legal issues focused on good governance, the Rule of Law and human rights.
- For the second consecutive year, raising more than $6,000 to support AFESIP Cambodia in its fight against the trafficking of women and children for sex slavery.
- Launching the LexisNexis Book Bank, resulting in academic organizations in Asia receiving thousands of educational legal books at no charge. Some of these books will go toward rebuilding a university system library in Afghanistan and a law school in Cambodia.
- Forming a close association with Beyond Borders and donating in support of its cause. Beyond Borders is the Canadian representative of ECPAT International, a global network of organizations and individuals working together to eliminate child prostitution, child pornography and the trafficking of children for sexual purposes.
- Sending a LexisNexis Canada employee to Cambodia to spend time with human trafficking survivor and activist Somaly Mam and to visit the Royal University of Law and Economics. LexisNexis Canada has provided this institution with complimentary law books and free access to legal information via Quicklaw.

Unparalleled content coupled with powerful features and functionality give you efficient access to cases, tribunal decisions, legislation, current awareness services, and an ever-expanding collection of authoritative secondary and analytical resources. With Quicklaw, access the premier collection of Canadian and international primary and secondary content.

Functionality Enhancements to the Quicklaw Service

Your continuing feedback has helped shape many of the enhancements developed for the Quicklaw service and other LexisNexis products.

The following enhancements, added over the past year, are available across all Quicklaw packages, including LexisNexis® Quicklaw® Full Service, LexisNexis Quicklaw Full Service International and LexisNexis Quicklaw Library.

Quick Lookup Tool New!

The new Quick Lookup research tool allows researchers to highlight text in any content on Quicklaw and perform a search in a separate window against eight key sources of information within Quicklaw, on other LexisNexis products and on the web. Researchers can choose to run their search on any of the following:

- Quicklaw: All Canadian Statutes and Regulations
- Quicklaw: Canadian Legal Words & Phrases
- Quicklaw: Halsbury's® Laws of Canada
- Lexis® Web
- Canadian-Lawyers.ca – Powered by Lawyers.com™
- martindale.com®
- Google™ Dictionary
- Wikipedia®

Quick Lookup provides researchers with the means to determine word and phrase meanings, see related content, and learn more about people, places and concepts – all without losing their place in their research workflow.

Auto-complete Search Feature New!

Added to the Quicklaw Home page, the optional auto-complete search enhancement presents researchers with a drop-down list of suggested terms when search queries are entered into select boxes in the Find a Document search box. A list of matches is generated as the search query is typed, with the list progressively narrowing as the term is completed. Researchers can select a term from the drop-down list rather than completing the search query. This valuable new search tool helps Quicklaw researchers save time, consider additional search terms and ensure accuracy in their queries.

Sort by Citing Frequency Option New!

This new sort option in the results list gives researchers the ability to sort full-text cases from Canadian courts and tribunals according to the number of times these cases have been cited by other cases. With this feature, researchers have one more tool to focus quickly on the most pertinent and important cases.

Add Topic(s) to Search Functionality Now Enhanced New!

The Add Topic(s) to Search functionality enables researchers to retrieve all Canadian content on Quicklaw sorted by area of law, under specific topics or legal terms. Researchers can also combine their own search terms with topics selected from the classification. Formerly “Refine Search by Area(s) of Law,” this functionality has now been enhanced and is accessible on several search forms on Quicklaw through the Add Topic(s) to Search link.

The enhancements include:

- A new structure, based on The Canada Digest classification system, including all public and federal areas of law, as well as private areas of law. The private areas of law are subdivided into two distinct sections: civil law and common law.
- Fully expanded criminal and family areas of law. All other areas of law will first comprise two levels and will progressively expand throughout the year, reaching up to six levels of granularity. The refine tool will thus go from 450 to more than 3,000 legal topics, including 50 areas of law.
- Additional search options, such as the ability to perform a search using the alphanumeric code attached to a classification topic and the option to search the classification using a section of the Civil Code of Québec or the Code of Civil Procedure to find a topic covered by that section.

Topic(s) Added to Search Highlighted in Retrieved Documents

Researchers are able to see pertinent terms highlighted in their retrieved documents in topical searches. When users apply the Add Topic(s) to Search (formerly “Refine Search by Area(s) of Law”) feature to their searches, the topical terms will be highlighted in addition to any of the user’s search terms. This information is being surfaced to indicate why each document is being retrieved in a topical search and to indicate why documents are being ranked in the order they appear in the results list.

Duplicate Options on News Power Search Form

Duplicate Options on the News Power Search form lets you choose whether or not you want to use similarity analysis to process your search results. Similarity analysis analyzes a results list, identifies documents that have similar content and groups the similar documents together.

Choose the type of similarity analysis you want from the Duplicate Options drop-down list:

- Off – No similarity analysis. If similarity analysis has already been performed, the results list is regenerated without similarity analysis.
- On – High similarity – Documents must be nearly identical in order for the service to include them in the same group of similar documents.
- On – Moderate similarity – Documents with relatively less similarity can be included in the same group of similar documents.

Note: You can turn on Duplicate Options from the search form, or you can run your search, generate a results list, and then turn on Duplicate Options.

Similarity analysis may find that a results list contains one or more groups of similar documents (no document will be included in more than one group). Likewise, if no documents in the list are similar enough that they can be grouped together, the results list may contain no groups.

After similarity analysis has identified and grouped similar documents, it chooses one document in each group as the “lead document.” These selections are based on user preferences that you can set up. In the results list, a lead document icon next to its title designates it as a lead document. Aside from this, lead documents are no different from any other documents in the list.

User Manual & Help Guides Link

Quicklaw has added a new User Manual & Help Guides link to its Home page under Resources & Tools. The link provides researchers with a direct link to the Quicklaw Training Manual, the Quicklaw Quick Reference Guide, Quicklaw training demos and cheat sheets, and reference guides for QuickFind™ and Auto Link.

New Look and Feel to LexisNexis® Quicklaw® Essentials New!

The LexisNexis Quicklaw Essentials series – designed specifically for sole practitioners and small law firms – is now even easier to use.

For each package in this series – LexisNexis Quicklaw Criminal Essentials, LexisNexis Quicklaw Civil Litigation Essentials, LexisNexis Quicklaw Employment Essentials, LexisNexis Quicklaw Family & Estates Essentials, LexisNexis Quicklaw SME Business Essentials, LexisNexis Quicklaw General Practice Essentials and, coming in 2011, LexisNexis Quicklaw Immigration Essentials – you'll find:

- A branded home page for the LexisNexis Quicklaw Essentials package
- The name of the LexisNexis Quicklaw Essentials package in the top left of the Home search page
- A My Bookshelf featuring the secondary resources available in the LexisNexis Quicklaw Essentials package, with a small visual of the publication itself next to each title for easy identification

QuickCITE® Enhancements

Your continuing feedback has helped shape many of the enhancements developed for QuickCITE.

The following enhancements will be available later this year across all Quicklaw packages, including LexisNexis Quicklaw Full Service, LexisNexis Quicklaw Full Service International and LexisNexis Quicklaw Library.

Commentary References in QuickCITE New!

The QuickCITE Case Citator is an essential research tool that allows researchers to determine the status and importance of a case. In 2011, LexisNexis Canada will add commentary references to QuickCITE. Researchers will be able to learn whether a case has been considered in either Halsbury's Laws of Canada or in a Canadian legal journal. QuickCITE records will include a commentary section that will provide researchers with a list of citing references and hyperlinks to the commentary documents that consider the case in question.

Regulations in QuickCITE Coming Soon!

QuickCITE Statute Citator records contain the summary of judicial considerations, along with treatment, pinpoint reference, case name, citation, court, date, and signal information. In 2011, LexisNexis Canada will add regulation references to QuickCITE from 2011 and following, resulting in the QuickCITE Legislation Citator. Soon, researchers will be able to confirm the authority of legislation, regardless if it is a statute or a regulation. (Regulation references dating back to 1992 will be added in a later phase.)

LexisNexis® TotalPatent™

TotalPatent Has Reached 100!

TotalPatent™ now contains 30 full-text authorities in addition to 70 bibliographic collections. The following authorities were added to the TotalPatent database over the past year:

- Full-Text Authorities – China, Russia, the former U.S.S.R., Eurasia, India, Mexico
- Bibliographic Authorities – Belarus, Iceland, Kazakhstan, San Marino

TotalPatent Enhancements

Enhancements to TotalPatent are driven by suggestions from patent professionals to help ensure you protect your client's intellectual property assets with the greatest efficiency, precision and confidence. The following enhancements were made to TotalPatent over the past year:

- TotalPatent COMPARE Feature New! – You can now compare your Semantic and Boolean search results, providing even greater transparency in analyzing your search results.

- Semantic Search “Brain” New! – The new semantic “brain” is now able to identify multiple concepts in a search query and return concept terms relevant to more than just one dominant concept. The researcher can then review the concepts suggested, assign relative importance by weighting them, eliminate concepts that are not related, and even add more concepts they think might be useful to their research.
- Alert Enhancements New!
 - Alerts can now be easily forwarded to other TotalPatent users. Under the Alerts subtab under History & Alerts, you can enter email addresses for up to 20 current TotalPatent users. Each address must be separated by a comma.
 - Custom selections are also available for alerts. When you create an alert, you can choose from the following settings: Sections, Bibliography and Images. Furthermore, the alert you receive contains more of the information you need:
 - Bookmarks for navigating in PDF files
 - Description for annotations
 - Entire search displayed
 - Frequency
 - Next run date
 - Table of authorities with most recent updates
 - Table of contents created with links to the record
- Alternative Print Option New! – Now you can print the entire search query for both recent and saved searches. This option is available under the Recent Searches and Saved Searches subtabs under History & Alerts.
- Reporting Enhancement – Patent family reports can be generated from documents in the results list as well as from documents in work folders.
- Semantic Search Enhancement – The Semantic Search interface now has drag-and-drop functionality, making it easier to interact with the concepts and terms.

LexisNexis® PatentOptimizer™

PatentOptimizer Analytics Tool

PatentOptimizer™ enhancements are driven by suggestions from patent professionals to help ensure you protect your client’s intellectual property assets with the greatest efficiency, precision and confidence. With the new PatentOptimizer Analytics tool, you can dispense with the complexities of multilayered search querying and get to the detailed information you need, all with a few simple clicks.

With PatentOptimizer Analytics, you can:

- Filter, rank and sort patent collections by various key data, such as inventor, examiner, legal representative, assignee, class, date, etc.
- Navigate and review ranked lists of extracted claim elements, parts, terms, phrases and definitions.
- Perform statistical and substantive analysis of the claims contained in a large patent portfolio, including FTO Analysis.
- Generate claim charts in Microsoft® Excel® for multiple patents (includes the ability to extract independent claims and generate claim element lists with related part numbers).
- Locate specific synonyms utilized across an entire portfolio (derived from the actual language of the patents processed).
- Create spreadsheets based on tool findings and specific user-identified criteria.

Nexis®

Your continuing feedback has helped shape many of the enhancements developed for the Nexis service over the past year, including:

- Results Deduplication – Users now have more control over news results by choosing whether or not to see documents that have similar content, providing the ability to easily distinguish duplicate records.
- Spreadsheet Export of Jigsaw Data – Enables users to seamlessly create detailed spreadsheets of key contacts, business associates or sales prospects by selecting results to download to Excel®. Nexis will automatically create a fully formatted spreadsheet, displaying all key contact-related content aligned for easy revision, manipulation and integration.
- Focus by Date – Users may now parse results lists by date to track coverage by discrete date ranges. This feature will enable better longitudinal analysis and trend or issue tracing without executing multiple searches.

For more information on Nexis, visit www.lexisnexis.ca/en/nexis.

LexisNexis® Company Dossier

This year we added new features to LexisNexis Company Dossier that came from your feedback and suggestions, including:

- Enhancements to List Creation Functionality
 - Revenue plug-in – Create a more precise search by including specific revenue figures in your search instead of choosing from prepopulated drop-down revenue options.
 - Single ticker – Users now have the option of searching by ticker symbol and not just by company name.
 - Multiple ticker – Insert an existing list of company ticker symbols to retrieve all the companies you are looking for.
- Delivery and Results Enhancements
 - Hyperlinks to Company Name in downloaded Excel sheet – Results downloaded in Excel format now have hyperlinks allowing you to simply click the company name to go to the Company Snapshot report rather than having to copy and paste the link into a new window.
 - Download Directory of Corporate Affiliations data into Excel – Users may now download results from the Directory of Corporate Affiliations into an Excel spreadsheet, allowing for easier manipulation of data.
 - More links to Jigsaw – Snapshot reports now contain more links from Jigsaw, which provide details about companies such as direct line numbers and individual email addresses.
- Search Enhancements
 - Batch upload – Enables users to upload a list of ticker symbols, DUNS numbers or Dossier IDs, which reduces the amount of time needed to create large searches. You can now easily search for up to 200 companies and all the executives from up to 10 companies.

For more information on LexisNexis Company Dossier, visit www.lexisnexis.ca/en/dossier.

LexisNexis® Publisher

Driven by your ongoing feedback and suggestions, we made the following enhancements to LexisNexis Publisher over the last year:

- Newsletter Enhancements New!
 - Newsletter redesign – The reimaged newsletter feature streamlines the process of providing results and offers a more sophisticated package for delivery. Technical requirements, such as HTML coding and locally stored URL-based images, have been removed.

- Logo management – The logos administration tab now enables editors to easily upload, store and manage logos and other small images from within LexisNexis Publisher.
- Enhanced Search Options New!
 - Rolling date option – A new date option enables editors to retrieve articles published within a specified number of days, preventing older stories with a current load date from appearing in results.
 - More flexible search options – Search fields, including Headline & Lead Terms, Ticker and Index Terms, can now be used independently of the Search Terms box.
- Enhanced Editorial Options New!
 - Option to hide document counts – The new Editor Preference option allows editors to remove document “counts” from the topics home page, resulting in faster loading times.
 - Option to view “ALL” email subscribers – The Editor Preference option enables editors to view all email subscribers on a single page.
 - Alphabetical filter for subscribers list – The addition of the Alphabetical Filter on the subscribers’ page enables editors to quickly find specific subscribers based on the first letter of their surnames.

JurisClasseur Québec Encyclopedia (Print Edition)

The JurisClasseur Québec encyclopedia is the essential source of judicial know-how in Quebec and Canada:

- A Proven Method and Adapted Approach to Quebec and Canadian Law – JurisClasseur Québec, an encyclopedia inspired by the classic JurisClasseur from France, brings an authoritative and expansive scope of work to Quebec's judicial community. Written by authors from Quebec, JurisClasseur Québec is completely adapted to the needs of every legal professional.
- An Exceptional and Carefully Selected Team of Authors – Quebec's leading academic alumnae, experienced practitioners, and up-and-coming young authors – we have united the best to write the first and only French-language encyclopedia of Quebec and Canadian law.
- Relevant, Concise and Topical Information – In Quebec, as elsewhere, the proliferation of information and information channels makes it difficult to retrieve the information that is most useful and most worthwhile in the day-to-day practice of law. The JurisClasseur Québec encyclopedia is designed to meet the need for a synthesis of the essential elements of current substantive law. Its content relies on information that is relevant, concise and topical.

The JurisClasseur Québec encyclopedia comprises innovative works designed to meet the needs and realities of current law practice in Quebec. Here is how JurisClasseur Québec distinguishes itself from other doctrinal works published in Quebec:

- One Subject, One Section – Each collection consists of a set of sections on a particular subject. Each section is written by one or two authors.
- Synthesis of Current Substantive Law – The collection synthesizes the essential elements of law, enabling you to quickly find solutions to legal problems. Historical references are omitted, except when they are utterly essential to understanding current law.
- Relevant, Useful and Concise – These are the key content elements. The editing criteria are simplicity of expression, conciseness and information usefulness. Of the massive amounts of information available, only the most useful and relevant information has been selected, which accounts for the encyclopedia's added value.
- Topical Information – The information contained in JurisClasseur Québec is updated twice a year to reflect recent legislative changes, case law and doctrine.
- Tips, Warnings and Examples – The authors use prominent headings and comments to dispense their advice and clearly inform you of the pitfalls to be avoided. One or more brief examples illustrate the notion being expounded.
- Titles and Tools for Easier Consultation – Each section contains specific elements designed to make consultation easier:
 - Key points – Found at the beginning of each section, the key points summarize the salient legal principles and provide a quick overview of the basic content.
 - Table of contents – Each section has a detailed table of contents, with references to the specific paragraph numbers.
 - Fine index – A fine index at the front of each section allows you to quickly locate information on a specific subject.
 - Numbered paragraphs with descriptive titles – All paragraphs are numbered, for specific referencing. Each paragraph bears a descriptive title allowing the subject matter to be identified at a glance.
 - Bibliography – A list of current doctrine is provided at the end of each section.
- Uniform Structure for All Volumes – All volumes have a uniform presentation and structure, greatly facilitating research and consultation of the collections published in JurisClasseur Québec.

BANKRUPTCY AND INSOLVENCY LAW

New Edition!

Commercial Insolvency in Canada, 2nd Edition

Kevin P. McElcheran

Leading insolvency lawyer Kevin McElcheran considers Canada's insolvency laws as a whole, to assist in the advancement of often competing, but occasionally aligned interests of debtors, creditors and other critical stakeholders in cases of all types and sizes. Coverage includes an integrated analysis of the amendments to the BIA and CCAA and how they will affect all aspects of commercial insolvency law; and an explanation of the distinction between amendments that codify prior practice and amendments that will change the practice going forward. This book features a discussion of important recent court decisions that are reshaping Canadian restructuring principles; a discussion of important cases that have applied the amended legislation and interim financing; and a new chapter on the recognition of international insolvency proceedings and cross-border filings, under Canada's version of the UNCITRAL model law for international insolvency.

Impaired Driving in Canada – The Charter Cases

The Honourable Mr. Justice Joseph F. Kenkel

This highly anticipated book was written by Justice Joseph Kenkel at the request of readers of his first book on drinking and driving, Impaired Driving in Canada (2009). It focuses on violations of the Canadian Charter of Rights that so often become the focus of impaired driving cases, but that arise in many other contexts as well. Concise and well-organized, this text provides quick access to the exact legal issue and fact situation applicable to one's case. This topic was done as a separate book, as the Charter analysis it contains is applicable to any criminal case and not just impaired driving.

Concordance® Evolution Coming Soon!

With the release of Concordance Evolution discovery management software, LexisNexis will take a major step toward bringing together each step of the litigation process – from data loading and processing to advanced searching, reviewing and production to case analysis and trial preparation.

With scalable Microsoft® SQL backend and a web-based server, Concordance Evolution will provide a centralized hub of control. Your team will be able to begin a review sooner, manage it more efficiently, gain more insight and maintain greater control over the discovery process.

What's coming in Concordance Evolution?

- High performance server architecture including scalable Microsoft SQL backend and a web-based server. While keeping your data in one place, this architecture will accelerate document searching, improve data integrity and support highly effective tagging in a large-scale, multiparty document review.

- A fully web-based approach with complete proxy server compatibility will mean there will be no application for you to install on your desktop.
- Advanced concept search, clustering, email threading and family groupings will help you precisely locate related evidence and reduce the risk of missing key information.
- Intuitive, role-based user interface will allow you to easily set up review workflows with multiple customized viewing variations and security levels.
- Centralized database and security management will enable you to manage all users, cases and databases from one location or multiple locations from one console.
- Powerful, integrated production tools will support native review, native imaging and colour productions.
- Native and near-native view will enable you to find and review files in their native formats (.doc, xls, .mps and more) – in many cases without installing associated software.
- Multilingual capabilities using the Unicode™ Standard will give you multilevel searching and clustering by language type across your data set.
- Electronic discovery loader and analysis tools will help you load data.
 - Intelligently and automatically deduplicate data across multiple data stores.
 - Load, process and analyze hundreds of file types.
- Thumbnail document reviews will give you a quick look at redactions without scrolling through every page.
- A dashboard will show how many documents have been reviewed, how many remain and general metrics related to your document review.
- Comprehensive auditing and reporting will track user activity from log in to log out and will generate reports for improved management and case analytics.
- Open Web Services Application Programming Interface (API) will allow scripting in commonly used web scripting languages such as VBScript, JavaScript and Python.
- Modular licensing will give you the ability to manage licences and order modules that best suit your needs.

LexisNexis® Early Data Analyzer Coming Soon!

LexisNexis Early Data Analyzer is a new application within LAW PreDiscovery software. It will help the litigation team gain a strategic advantage and conduct a defensible and proportionate e-discovery process by allowing the team to conduct early data assessment prior to data collection and processing. This will help the team identify key documents relevant to the case and assess risk and costs at the earliest possible point, right where the data resides.

By using LexisNexis Early Data Analyzer, you will be able to logically and automatically deduplicate data across multiple data stores to reduce review and case analysis. You will reduce the volume of data where it lives – by up to 80 per cent – to help speed review, avoid the risk of corruption that can otherwise occur during data transfer and maintain proportionality between discovery costs and the importance and value of the case.

Once you finish preprocessing with LexisNexis Early Data Analyzer, you will be able to use integrated tools to easily load the smaller data set into LAW PreDiscovery for native and full-text extraction.

Benefit from each step of early data assessment:

- Perform Inventory Analysis
 - Identify true file types – LexisNexis Early Data Analyzer will save time and reduce the risk of missing key documents by flagging documents that were saved earlier with invalid extensions and looking at the file header to determine the correct file type.
 - Further refine the data set – With LexisNexis Early Data Analyzer, you will be able to index various files including emails and attachments in mail stores; detect and index archive items (such as zip files); De-NIST the data to remove operating system files, program files and other non-user created data; and check for duplicate files.
- Filter, Index and Search – Once your inventory is completed, you will be able to apply the following options:
 - Filter based on domain, file type, metadata and/or date. Filtering will help you find values quickly and ensure that only the most relevant documents are chosen for the final dataset. As a result, you will be able to increase productivity and ensure that discovery costs remain proportional to the value and importance of the case.
 - Index electronic documents, email and attachments for efficient searching (DT Search). After indexing is complete, your computer will have a record of files and their locations.
 - Search through the full-text data for content in a document. You will be able to include or exclude keywords. Search-term loading will be supported. Precision tools will help you improve accuracy as you locate related evidence and duplicate documents in your discovery collections.

- Generate reports for a valuable preview of risk associated with the case to establish the defensibility of your culling process, as well as provide tangible evidence of discovery costs that will be critical to proportionality negotiations and assessments by the court.

- How much does Time Matters Mobility cost?

Time Matters Mobility is included with version 11 at no additional cost as part of your Annual Maintenance Plan (AMP). Note that users may incur data service charges from their mobile carrier as a result of using this functionality.

- Must I have a current AMP to get or use Time Matters Mobility?

Yes, Time Matters Mobility is available only to customers with a current AMP.

- Will my data be secure?

Yes, the data is compressed and encrypted using SSL from the moment the data leaves your office's Time Matters environment all the way to it being shown on the mobile device. Additionally, no data is stored on the device, reducing your risk should the device be lost or stolen.

- Do I need to synchronize my mobile device with the Time Matters database?

Time Matters Mobility provides real-time integration of Time Matters activity on the mobile device with the firm's Time Matters system. No cables or syncing is required to receive the most current information in the system.

- What mobile devices does Time Matters Mobility support?

Time Matters Mobility works on most web-enabled mobile devices with an active Internet connection, such as BlackBerry®, DROID™, HTC® HD7, iPad® and iPhone® devices.

- How many mobile devices can I use?

Time Matters Mobility access is based on the number of user licences that you currently own.

* Requires a Quicklaw account and a separate subscription.

 Some restrictions may apply. The number of sources is current to July 2008 and is subject to change without notice.

 Per volume with commitment to purchase the entire 70-volume set.

† Standing order terms apply. Purchasers will be placed on standing order to receive future editions automatically on 30-day risk-free examination terms.
