permai sustain nuisano 3, 2012 genera conclus I have I O.J. No wonde It is inte	Inett Jones LLP in Edmonton and I currently represent Magna International Inc. in an action in which an individual is seeking a junction to prohibit certain noise inducing activities alleged to be occurring at our client's private corporate park, and for damages he alleged nuisance. The issue in the case is whether or not the present use of our client's premises comprises a compensable thich the plaintiff is entitled to injunctive relief accompanied by or independent of general damages. This matter was heard on January tice Paul John. He found on a balance of probabilities that some of the activities conducted in this park have, on an irregular basis, and waves that reach the plaintiff's property, of a decibel level that constitutes a compensable nuisance. Having reached this e invited counsel to make submissions a remedy. The hearing is scheduled for December 15, 2012.
