Simply enter:

- A natural language search, then click Search. No source selection is necessary (e.g., occupier’s liability).
- A terms and connector search (e.g., disability/20 alcohol!), then click Search.
- A citation (e.g., 2005scj65), then click Search to retrieve the full-text document as well as search results for that citation.
- A partial or full source title (e.g., Copyright Board), then click Search to find a source title to add to your search or to retrieve the source’s documents.
- A case name (e.g., Demoor v. Harvey), then click Search to retrieve the full-text document as well as any search results for that case.
- A statute name (e.g., Bridges Act), then click Search to retrieve the full-text document as well as search results for that statute.

As you type, the red search box offers suggested legal phrases, documents and sources.

Refine your search upfront and filter by jurisdiction, content category, or practice area and topic — or get help with terms & connectors. Click Recent & Favourites to open recent sources, filters or topics. You can also filter your search results.

Access content in a focused way and automatically scope your search results by clicking on a link in Explore Content.

Get there quicker! Use these pods for fast access to favorite sources, Folders, Alerts and legal topic update notifications. A blue dot means that item has new information. The pods also offer access to Help topics and new Lexis Advance Quicklaw updates.
