

Tip Sheet | Access Out-of-Subscription Documents

Documents outside your subscription are clearly marked and cannot be accessed unless you take active steps to purchase them.

Screenshots shown here are examples; they do not reflect current Lexis Advance® Quicklaw® prices.

Selecting out-of-subscription sources

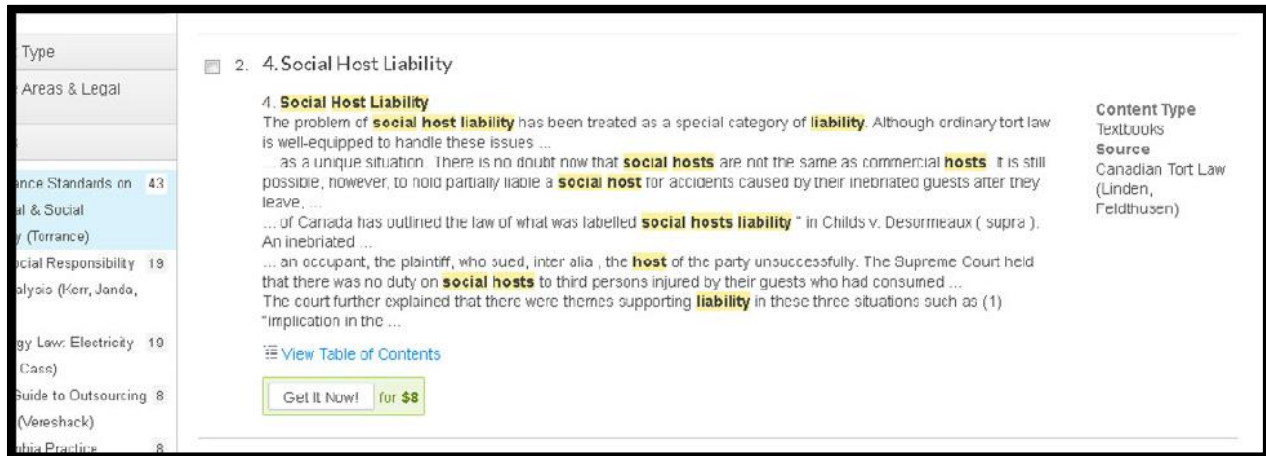

From Browse Sources screens:

You can search for a source with one asterisk at no charge, but you will incur document-access charges if you select documents from the results screen. Sources with two asterisks and a grayed-out source name cannot be added to your search.

Out-of-plan documents in search results

All out-of-subscription documents are marked with a Get It Now! icon. To help you make a purchase decision, you can view your search words in context and see the applicable cost. Documents available at a special price include a Save! icon. (Not shown.)

The screenshot shows a document titled "4. Social Host Liability". The main text discusses the legal concept of social host liability, mentioning cases like Childs v. Desormeaux. A sidebar on the right lists "Content Type" as "Textbooks" and "Source" as "Canadian Tort Law (Linden, Feldhusen)". A "Get It Now! for $8" button is visible at the bottom of the document content area.

You can only access the document via the Get It Now! link; the document title is not linked. You can also save the document to a Folder and purchase it later. There is no charge to hold an out-of-plan document in a Folder. Click the checkbox, then the Folder icon and make your Folder selection.

Linking to out-of-plan documents

From a Full-Text Document or a Search Results Page for Cases:

If you click an embedded link (i.e., attempt to link from a full-text subscription document to an out-of-plan document), you are notified and can cancel the task or purchase the document.

The notification box has a green background and contains the following text: "Additional Charges Will Apply", "This material is not included in the flat rate plan for this ID", a button labeled "List Price:$8", and "Client ID: -None-".

Reminders on documents you purchase:

Once purchased, non-subscription documents can be used for 90 days, or for one year if the document is saved to a Folder. Lexis Advance Quicklaw shows you the expiration date on:

- Full-text documents in the About This Document box
- Search results listings showing that document
- History lists displaying that document

- Folder listings for that document. Updates to that Folder document during the year you use the document are included in the purchase price.
